Market report: FinTech sector in Poland

Poland is the largest FinTech center in Central and Eastern Europe. According to Deloitte Poland, the value of this segment of Polish economy is about EUR 860m. In its latest report, Deloitte shows that for 72% of startups in Poland, the main source of funding is the founders' money. Meanwhile, the share of venture capital in the investment in finance and technology companies accounts for about 70%, globally.

According to Deloitte experts, foreign expansion is a prerequisite for gaining new customers for Polish fin-tech companies. However, Polish financial institutions have been limited to international markets. This slows down the process of scaling on the Polish and international markets.
